

Self Declaration Of Ethical Commitment

1. Luftmateriell A/S will respect the standards of conduct set forth in the ethical guidelines that are applicable to business relationship between suppliers and employees according to standards that can be found at www.lovddata.no
2. Luftmateriell A/S' contact with its customers and suppliers is exclusively professional and is based on good business practice
3. Luftmateriell A/S is not bankrupt, does not undergo debt settlement or liquidation, has not been suspended or are under any similar process under the national laws and regulation
4. Luftmateriell A/S is not subject to proceedings for bankruptcy, has not requested the opening of a debt settlement or forced liquidation or similar process under the national law and regulations.
5. Luftmateriell A/S and its employees or other associated, has not been convicted by a final judgement of offence concerning its professional conduct, such as breach of existing national and international legislation on the export of defense and security materials
6. Luftmateriell A/S and its employees or associated with the business, has not been convicted by a final judgement of offence against criminal acts of participation in a criminal organisation, corruption, fraud, money laundering, terrorist activity or financing of terrorist activity
7. Luftmateriell A/S and its employees or other associated with the business, in their profession has not been guilty of grave professional misconduct of professional and ethical requirements in the industry concerned, such as breach of obligation regarding security of information or security of supply during a previous contract
8. Luftmateriell A/S follows the criteria based on key UN conventions, ILO conventions and national labor legislation in the country/ies of production. Pursuant to UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, companies have an independent responsibility to respect internationally recognized human rights and the ILO's core conventions. When subcontractor/s are used to fulfill an obligation, Luftmateriell A/S communicates the requirements to its subcontractors, and we will contribute towards ensuring compliance in the supply chain